Excursions to Lacombe on July 20

The Alberta Department of Agriculture is making arrangements to have excursion trains run to the Lacombe Experimental Farm. An excursion will be run from Strathcona to Lacombe on July 20th, leaving at 8:45 a. m. Extra coaches are to be supplied on the regular Stettler train. On the Wetaskiwin Branch there will be a rate of one fare and one-third plus $1.05 from Wetaskiwin to Lacombe. Passengers will be picked up at Wetaskiwin by the Strathcona special and carried to Lacombe, returning with this train to Wetaskiwin the same evening.

An excursion will be run from Calgary to Lacombe on July 20th leaving at 6:45 a. m. These trains will leave Lacombe on the return trip about 7 p. m. the same evening.

The Superintendent of the Experimental Farm will have several men to act as guides, explaining to people the various matters of interest to be found on the farm. Short addresses will also be delivered.

The Experimental Farm was established in 1907 and has made good progress. There are many interesting features to be seen, and it is hoped that the people of the Province will take advantage of the cheap excursion rates to visit the Farm.

Lucerne for Horses.

According to a bulletin from the Kansas Agricultural Experimental Station, there seems to be an almost universal opinion among horsemen, and especially among those that are raising heavy horses, that no grass or combination of grasses equals or even approaches the value of alfalfa (lucerne) as a pasture for horses. It is maintained that from an economical point of view it has no equal, as it will furnish so much more feed per acre than any other grass. It will not only pasture more horses, but it will produce horses of great weight, larger bones, and stronger muscles. "A horse that has been reared in an alfalfa pasture, and fed a light ration of alfalfa all winter," says the bulletin, "makes one of the finest horses to be found in any market to-day. To produce a horse of the highest type, with the cleanest bone, the best-developed muscle, the best temperament, and the greatest action and finish, nitrogenous feed must be used, and in no other food can this most essential element of nutrition be so cheaply and so abundantly supplied as it can by feeding alfalfa. The most successful producers of both heavy and light horses are to-day using alfalfa extensively in the development of their young horses. Its value for this purpose is not recognized by the Kansas feeder alone, for, after seeing Kansas alfalfa-grown horses, Eastern breeders, where alfalfa cannot be grown, are sending their colts to Kansas alfalfa fields to be developed as they could not be at home. The majority of horse-owners are inclined to waste hay in feeding horses—that is, they feed more than is necessary for the maintenance of the horse, and more than he can economically take care of. A fifteen-hundred pound horse that is doing steady work should have about 4 lbs. of hay with his morning feed, the same amount at noon, and about double the amount at night. Many horses will eat 30 to 40 lbs. of hay a day if they have free access to it. If a horse is allowed to eat such quantities, half of it is wasted, for it does the horse an injury. From 2 to 2½ lbs. of digestible protein is all that an ordinary horse can utilize in a day, and in 100 lbs. of alfalfa there are 11 lbs. of digestible protein. This fare of alfalfa, if too heavily fed, is likely to cause kidney disorder, and may even be responsible for abortion in pregnant mares that are fed too liberal a ration of it. If it does not cause abortion, weak, unhealthy foals will be the result. Have alfalfa fed judiciously to pregnant mares, heavy or light work horses, and it is beneficial, and should be used wherever it is obtainable, and it should never be used as the exclusive roughage. Some objection is made to it on account of causing looseness of the bowels and making the horses soft and easy to sweat. This is due to their having it in too large quantities. Alfalfa hay should be fed as part of the grain ration rather than a roughage. If fed in this manner its use will be found very satisfactory."

Auction Sale.—Chas. Mott, eight miles west of Blackfalds, will sell 20 head of pure bred Shorthorns, 10 head of grade cattle, several horses, implements and household goods, by public auction, on Wednesday, July 21st, commencing at 11 o'clock—H. Thornton Bolt, auctioneer.

"India for the Indians."

A combination of circumstances which brought about the downfall of England in North American colonies and gave birth to the republic of the stars and stripes is slowly bringing about the fall of Great Britain in her Oriental dependency (writes Saint Nihal Singh in the "St. Louis Globe-Democrat").

The war of the American revolution was preceded by the throwing of chests of English tea into Boston Bay. Every one in the American colonies who dared to use British goods was ostracized by society. In India a boycott of British goods has been in vigorous operation since early in 1907. English linens and cottons have been piled up in various towns near Calcutta and blazing bonfires have proclaimed to the world that the intelligent people of India have grown tired of leaning on alien governmental crutches.

The natives of Hindostan organized the boycott of English goods movement mainly for this reason: The Englishman has been in India for lot these many centuries for commercial exploitation. Since the English are a "nation of shopkeepers," the boycott hits them in their tenderest spot—the region of the pocket-book. The immediate cause of this boycott was the fact that the British Government of Hindostan divided the Province of Bengal against the wishes of the people. This division was made with a view to weaken the Bengalees—"divide and rule" has been the consistent policy of the English in India. No other policy could have enabled 150,000 Britishers to dominate over 300,000,000 East Indians.

The boycott of British goods is only one expression of the movement that aims at the downfall of the English in India. The educated East Indians are all vigorously working for "India for the Indians." They do not want to play "second fiddle" to the English and be off their land in their own country, and pay taxes to the alien ruler. In his heart of hearts every intelligent native of Hindostan wants "home rule" for his motherland. Naturally, there is in India an unprecedented volume of fierce agitation against the English which virtually threatens Great Britain with the effacement of its suzerainty over Hindostan. This has brought about a great ferment in India and the erstwhile land of nirvana is in the throes of an overwhelming revolution.

When one stops to consider that the Hindoo, who for generations has refrained from opening the shell of an egg lest he destroy the life that lay dormant beneath the shell, has turned terrorist and does not hesitate to take the lives of his English rulers, one can easily realize that a tremendous social revolution has taken place in India. The cowering lamb has turned into a roaring lion. This phenomenal change has been the result of the awakening of the East Indian to his state of vassalage to Great Britain. The genesis of this awakening can be readily traced to the Japanese successes during the Russo-Japanese war.

The Englishman went to India as a commercial exploiter, but he told the native East Indians that he was in the "dark" lands, nobly shouldering the "white man's burden" at considerable personal discomfort and sacrifice—that he was civilizing the dormant, ambitious heathens and preparing them for self-government. He made a consistent effort to prevent the world from discovering and publicly discussing the fact that commercial exploitation was the magnet that drew the Briton to India and keeps him there.

To throw dust into the eyes of the nations at large, and also his subject peoples, the Englishman conceded to East Indians a certain amount of freedom of press and municipal self-government, extended to the educated natives a few well-paid posts in the administration, permitted a few Indians to discuss measures in the legislative councils fortified with official majorities. By these and sundry means he kept the simple-minded natives of India amused with their playthings and won applause from foreigners for advancing democracy.

The Indian is fast coming to be like the lion that has tasted human blood—he wants more. He seeks a real voice in the government administration. He wants all of the responsible official positions. He is talking of a Monroe doctrine for India. He is developing a passionate ambition to substitute the native agency in place of the foreign administration, and for revolutionizing Hindostan, socially and industrially.

To further this propaganda, the native is making good use of the press, and also of the platform. "India for the Indians" being not a very tasteful topic for the Englishman, the Britisher is employing every means he can command to throttle "sedition"—as he puts it. This has brought to light the real policy of the English in India; and, in consonance with it, Russianism, with all its attendant horrors, is finding a foothold in Hindostan. Indian leaders are being exiled without trial.

Indian speakers are being jailed, conviction being secured through "packed" juries. An act has been passed practically suspending the freedom of the press. Another statute has been enacted putting a ban on political speeches in public and even in private. Indians are being flogged for political crimes. Responsible natives are constantly shadowed by detectives, and their correspondence read before being delivered to them.

A veritable spy system has been created to terrorize the Indian propagandists. In order to make this unscrupulous espionage system all the more hateful, a "law" has been passed which deprives Indians both of the right to be heard before a magistrate and of trial by jury. This legal instrument authorizes three high court judges to deal summarily with the natives of India hauled up by spies as enemies of Great Britain.

Weak in their physiques and harmless as are the people of India,

CANADA'S BEST NEWSPAPER.

"A Cloud of Witnesses" among the Press of Canada have nothing but praise for the Montreal "Witness."

To what other large metropolitan newspaper anywhere in Canada, has such whole-hearted and generous praise ever been accorded as may be found in the following examples of what is being said by press and people all over the Dominion?

"The 'Witness' is a newspaper of which Canadians are justly proud. It publishes all the news in the most straightforward way and its readers are kept well informed. Moreover its readers are leaders in their respective communities, the 'Witness' appealing strongly to the people of character everywhere."

The following statements of fact are worthy the consideration of anyone of our readers.

"The 'Witness' exerts a most beneficial influence in the homes and hearts of our people."—The Late Archbishop Bond, Primate of all Canada.

"The 'Witness' has manifested in an eminent degree the qualities of courage and sincerity."—R. L. Borden, Leader of the Conservative party.

"The Montreal 'Witness' is never influenced by mere party feelings."—Chatham Commercial.

"The Montreal 'Witness' numbers among its clientele the most independent and thoughtful newspaper readers in Canada."—Edmonton Bulletin.

"The Montreal 'Witness' stands for purity and honesty in government."—The Hamilton Spectator.

"The Montreal 'Witness' is a newspaper which is bold enough to be honest, and honest enough to be bold."—Sarnia (Ont.) Observer.

"The Montreal 'Witness' was never better or more useful than it is today."—Dominion Presbyterian.

"The 'Witness' is one of the best papers published."—Bowmanville Statesman.

"The 'Witness' never fails to command respect for its fairness and impartiality."—Sarnia Observer.

"The 'Witness' is the most impartial and independent newspaper in Canada."—Charlotte, P. E. I. District.

"The Montreal 'Witness' does nothing small."—Picton Gazette.

"The Montreal 'Witness' is by far the most influential newspaper in Canada."—The Herald, Corner, Ont.

"The 'Witness' is no doubt the best newspaper in Canada."—Northern Advance.

"The 'Witness' deserves the good words that have been said of it."—Christian Guardian.

Right minded people will appreciate such opinions and will pass them to friends who may not have seen them.

The Daily edition is $3.00 a year and the Weekly only $1.00. These rates are low since it costs much more to produce a paper like the Witness than it does to produce many of its leading competitors.

Character counts because it costs.

The Witness is published by John Douglass & Son, Montreal, and has now completed its sixty-second year.

Food for Thought.

"World Wide" is a publication that will not interest the ignorant or the people who do not want to think, but those who wish to keep in touch with great thinkers of the time in Great Britain and the United States will find it both invaluable and extremely entertaining. "World Wide" is unique. It is the only Canadian paper of its kind and the only paper of its kind in the world, to our knowledge, that gives such a wealth of strong and suggestive writing on every subject for so small a subscription price.

The peculiar mission of "World Wide" seems to be that of turning the full tide of British and American thoughts into a Canadian channel at a price which puts it within the reach of everyone. "World Wide" has no axe to grind and is free alike from partiality and fecklessness. The following opinions may be taken as representing the opinion of all "World Wide" readers who are wont to speak most highly about their favorite review.

"World Wide" is a very interesting and instructive paper, and its selections have been made with excellent judgment."—H. J. Cundell, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

"I have found 'World Wide' both interesting and instructive, the articles and cartoons judiciously selected."—Judge C. O. Ernsting, Judge's Chambers, St. Thomas, Ont.

"I have taken 'World Wide' ever since its publication, and I consider it not only the best eclectic at the price, but the equal of any and the superior of most."

It is a great boon to a busy man.—Rev. F. Friggens, Liverpool, N. S.

"World Wide" is invaluable to business men and others as a means of keeping in touch with current thoughts and events the world over."—Mr. H. H. Leeson, Standard Bank, Parkhill, Ont.

"I have taken 'World Wide' for six years and I consider it excellent. I look forward with pleasure to its weekly arrival, and always find it most interesting."—W. C. B. Manson, Grimsby, Ont.

"I have no hesitation in expressing my unqualified satisfaction with 'World Wide.' The articles are selected with care and discrimination."—Rev. A. A. Von Iffland, Bergrville, Que.

"World Wide" is issued every week, at five cents at all the leading bookstores, or at $1.50 a year, mailed in any part of the world, by John Douglass & Son, Witness Block, Montreal.

An Invitation.

Editor Lacombe Advertiser.

Dear Sir: We extend to you and to your readers who are interested in Agriculture an invitation to spend the 20th of this month with us at this station. While much remains to be done to lend to the attractiveness of this new farm, yet we hope to be in a position to place before you something of interest and practical value.

Caterers will supply lunch to those who do not wish to bring baskets, and every effort will be made to make the day pass pleasantly and profitably.

Sincerely yours,
G. H. HUTTON, Supt.

Blackfalds.

Mr. Charles Le Blanc, of Fernie B. C., has purchased the Imperial Hotel of this place and took possession on July 1st. Mr. G. B. Shore, the former landlord, will reside in the village.

Mr. Gilbert, student, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church last Sunday evening. Mr. Anderson, the regular pastor, is absent with his sick wife in Winnipeg.

Rev. J. H. Hagen preached for the Church of Christ in the public hall last Sunday morning and evening.

Blackfalds boasts of four churches, five resident clergymen, and five distinct organized denominations. With a population of less than two hundred, we wonder why the missionary societies of the various Christian churches impose this burden on this long suffering people.

Mr. Neville D. L. S., of Red Deer, laid out the site for the proposed new school, on Monday of this week. The contract for the building has been awarded to Messrs. Hamilton and Cannon, of Lacombe.

A meeting was held on the evening of the 5th with the view of taking steps to have the proposed school site changed to a more suitable location. The principal objection to the site selected is its close proximity to Mr. Trout's piggery. With one hundred hogs on one side of the street and one hundred children on the other which would make the most noise at noon?

Great Britain fears a popular insurrection in the country. The disparity in the numbers of the rulers and the ruled is remarkable. A native secessionist recently showed this in a realistic manner. He said that if every countryman of his should spit in an empty tank there would be liquid enough to drown every Englishman in the land.

An essential part of the white man's philosophy has ever been the belief that he is destined to dominate the world, on the theory of "the survival of the fittest." This belief militates against the Hindoo's claim to having munificently contributed toward civilization in the past. It has also collided with his contention that the period has arrived when the Indian can well do without external guidance and spare the Englishman the trouble of looking after the brown man's estate.

The new generation of Indians which has come into vital contact with Western thought and drunk deep at the fountain of liberty, fraternity, and equality, hates to see the actual control of the Indian administration in foreign hands and the highest governmental posts monopolized by aliens.

An overweening sense of his own importance and superiority is the guiding principle of the life of the Englishman in India. Isolation from the native forms the apex upon which the Britisher builds his inverted pyramid in Hindostan. If the Englishman has failed in India, or if he is to fail there, his failure is to be attributed to these traits of character more than any other lack in him.

The average English official does not throw his doors open wide to the natives. There is no exchange of social functions. The rulers and the ruled do not make friendly calls on each other. The only time an Indian is seen to enter the sanctum sanctorum of the Britisher is when he comes "to pay his respects."

The worst features of race consciousness are to be seen in British law courts and on railroads. In cases where the defendant is an Englishman and a native of the land is the aggrieved party the popular belief in India is that the native gets the worst of it. Instances can be cited by the score where Englishmen who killed Indians went scot free or escaped with a small fine or prison sentence. In fact, according to the popular version, whenever an Englishman does a native to death an English doctor is always available to certify that the deceased suffered from enlargement of the spleen, and an English magistrate is at hand to give credit to such a statement.
